

DACIA MARAINI,
MONICA VITTI
AND ANDY WARHOL,
IN 1973.

ROMAN HOLIDAY

Macro, the museum of modern art of Rome, which opened its door more than a decade ago, is not only located in an amazing and elegant building, it is also established in one of the most culturally active neighbourhoods, the Testaccio. The on-going exhibition showcases the collections of arts from 1960's to present. A real delight! Rachèle Bevilacqua

Exposition "Ritratto di una città. Arte a Roma 1960-2001", Until May 26th, www.museomacro.org

THE STORY OF MADEMOISELLE

Before the world knows her as Coco, the designer who revolutionized women's fashion went by the name Gabrielle Chanel. She was a little girl who lived in an orphanage with her two sisters, and for the first time, the story of Gabrielle is told in a comic book, from her obscure childhood until her successful life as fashion's true "Mademoiselle" that we all know her for. R.B.

Coco Chanel, by Pascale Frey and Bernard Ciccolini, Naive edition.

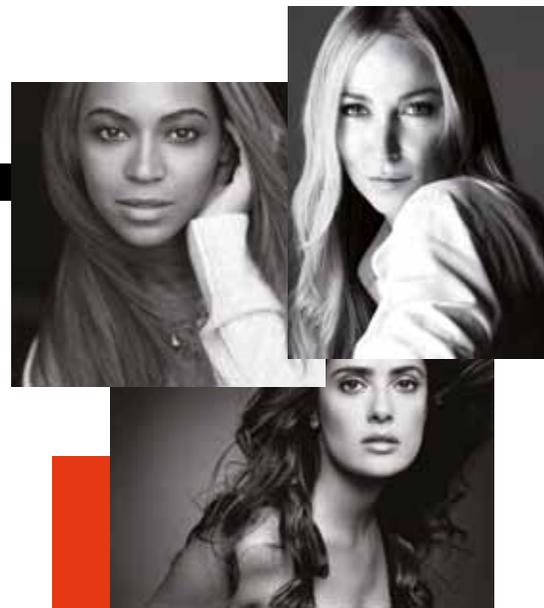

40 Years in Asia

Sotheby's recently organized a private viewing which highlights selected Southeast Asian Paintings and collection of watches at The Capital Residence, Jakarta, to celebrate their 40 years in Asia. Collectors were given a preview of fine works of art which will be auctioned on the 6th of April, at the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre for the upcoming spring 2013 sales. Natasha Asoka
www.sothebys.com

FINE ART 69

Patrice Valette, founder of Fine Art 69, moved from Swiss 2 years ago and has recently opened a gallery in Kuala Lumpur with Indonesia's top fashionista, Izabel jahja as its Program Director. Located at Damansara Height, Fine Art 69 currently represents both local and international artists, with a few Indonesian artists scheduled to join later this year. N.A.
www.fineart69.com

CHIME FOR CHANGE

What do Frida Giannini of GUCCI, Salma Hayek Pinault and Beyoncé Knowles-Carter have in common? They share the same passion for girls' and women's empowerment, as is apparent in the new campaign that featured Beyoncé's music, narrated by Salma Hayek Pinault, directed by Frida Giannini and founded by GUCCI, which was presented at the TEDxWOMEN 2013. Together they joined their hands to raise funds and chime for change. N.A.

www.chimeforchange.org